

One of my long-time readers made me aware of some new online trading courses called "Applied Systems Development for Traders" and "Using the Owl Bundle on Thinkorswim".

If you are interested in swing trading or intraday trading, these courses integrate the latest trading techniques of Dr. Ken Long. I have taken Ken Long's courses in the past. I was impressed with his systematic and rigorous approach to trading.

He uses statistically based data and indicators to:

- assess the market conditions,
- project potential market reversals,
- identify trade candidates that are likely to move higher or lower,
- find trade entries, targets, and exits, and
- accurately calculate reward and risk.

Something that's especially important to me is that Dr. Long includes trading psychology and position sizing as essential parts of his trading process.
